SINCE my business is ADVERTISING, I am taking my own medicine by advertising myself.

I do not intend to boast about myself, but I do want to tell you what I think I can do.

There are many clever men in the field. I know I have the keenest competition to meet but that will not prevent me from getting my share of the business.

I feel so sure of being able to help some business men to do a greater business by adopting the style of advertising I believe in, that I will be willing to take a modest fee, as I am certain you would not like, in fairness to me, that I should render this service absolutely free of charge.

HEALTHY HAIR HINTS.

The idea that baldness is a sign of intellectuality is fast being exploded.

The hair is not pushed out of the head by the great knowledge inside.

In fact many learned men use Kaminia Oil to prevent their hair from coming out.

They are succeeding with it, too.

So are many in all stages of intellectuality.

Available everywhere but it must be Kaminia Oil.

STANDARD BAROMETER READING.

The following information is published in order that vessels in the Bombay Harbour may by comparison with a standard instrument ascertain the errors of their barometers:—

The reading of the Standard Barometer in the Colaba Observatory corrected for index error and reduced to 80 deg. F. and to the level of the tide, at 8-45 a.m., Standard Time on the 4th August 1916 was 29.867 inches. For temperature corrections applicable to mercurial barometer of ships the reading of the ship's barometer has to be increased or decreased by .031 inch for every 5 degrees according as the temperature of the attached thermometer is respectively below or above 80 deg. F. In case of the aneroid no temperature correction is needed. But for comparison at 80 deg. F. all aneroid readings should be increased by .138 inch. For correcting the ship's barometer either mercurial or aneroid for the height of the barometer cistern above the tide level in the stream at 8-45 a.m. Standard Time, the ship's barometer reading should be increased by .010 inch for every 10 feet of the height to make it comparable with the observatory barometer reading given.

THE ROYAL YAKUTI.

(ANANG VILAS.)

This Yakuti or life-giving nectar has been prepared from the best, choicest and richest vegetable drugs. It has a wonderful property of increasing the nerve power and is specific for diseases. This valuable medicine is used in large quantities among Rajas, Maharajas and many of our esteemed customers. But we have ventured to give it publication simply with a view to place it before the general public owing to the demand of several friends. It is needless to expatiate upon the magical qualities of this our invaluable medicine. We would not like to blow the trumpet as is the fashion of the day, but suffice it to say that the use of this medicine is recommended to those who have any faith in the efficacy of Ayurvedic and Unani persons who desire to tone up the nervous medicines. We recommend it also to those systems, to strengthen the body refresh the memory and to guard against debility. It works like a charm and the effect is lasting. It restores strength and it is enough to say that musk is not that which a perfumer admires, it is that which diffuses fragrance of its own accord. Price per tin containing 40 pills. Rupees ten only. Postage extra. No PARHEZ necessary.

Still Another Merited Triumph for Kidney & Bladder
De Witt's Pills

When the agonising misery of years of Backache is banished, isn't that a triumph?

Just simply bowed down with that awful backache, sometimes a dull, dead ache, at other times a terrible sharp stab, just like the thrust of a knife. Only those who suffer with agonising backache can understand the meaning of these words.

"I am just an ordinary gas stoker by trade, and have been a great sufferer from kidney trouble, which showed itself by severe pains in the back. These never seemed to leave me day nor night for something over three years. The misery of it was awful. I tried all kinds of remedies without getting any or little relief; took all kinds of medicines, and did everything that a man could do who was anxious to get rid of pain.

"One day, when I had almost given up hope of ever being cured, I got a box of De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills, and I took them as directed. Within a very few hours it appeared that I was getting relief, but it seemed too good to be true, I could hardly believe it. However, I persevered with them, and after taking four boxes the pain that had been upon me so long entirely disappeared. While I was thankful to get temporary relief even for a short time, at this time—August 27th, 1912—I was doubtful as to whether I was really cured, but I felt sure that time only could prove whether my cure was permanent or not."

This is the story of how Mr. William Wright, of 11, Watlington Street, Reading, suffered, and how he was cured.

Here is the climax: On July 29th, 1914, nearly two years after Mr. Wright first thought he was cured, he said: "I am pleased to tell you that the cure that was effected nearly two years ago has proved to be absolutely permanent, and I have had no return of my old trouble. I am keeping quite well and shall always recommend De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills, as I am sure that they are a splendid remedy in all kinds of kidney troubles. I shall be very pleased to reply to anyone enquiring of me regarding the above facts I never lose an opportunity of recommending De Witt's Pills to people who I know would benefit by them."

MR. W. WRIGHT (from photo).

Most people look upon backache as something not worth troubling about until the pain gets really severe. Backache is always one thing—it is a signpost of danger. Backache means one thing and one thing only — kidney trouble. It may be in its early stages, or it may be advanced, but backache invariably means that the kidneys are affected.

It is remarkable how this kidney trouble seems to be increasing year by year. Thousands and thousands of people in the towns and villages of this country are in terrible danger of deadly kidney disease, if they only knew and realised it.

This insidious disease creeps on, gradually getting a firmer and firmer grip, until when it is too late the poor sufferer discovers he has Bright's Disease. Have you kidney trouble? Do you know how to recognise whether you are suffering from this or not?

Here are some of the symptoms of kidney disease: Aches and pains in various parts of the body, nasty taste in the mouth first thing in the morning, constipation, cloudy and bad-coloured urine, general feeling of weakness and irritability, puffiness under the eyes—these are all symptoms of kidney trouble.

And then people who suffer from backache, rheumatism, gout, sciatica, gravel, stone, or pains in the bladder, muscles, and joints are all suffering these pains through weak or diseased kidneys, for these are the sure and certain symptoms of kidney trouble.

All these things mean that the kidneys are weak and diseased. They need strengthening and making healthy.

The moment any symptoms of kidney trouble are detected a very simple and sure remedy should be tried without delay.

You should use one which millions of people are using throughout the world—one which English sufferers have faith in, and so have Scotch, Irish, and Welsh people. Not only these, the people of New Zealand, South, East, North, and West Africa, India, Australia, and China in their millions swear by it.

The people of Holland, the Belgian, the Frenchman, yes, and the Italian, too, all know that it is the only one certain remedy for kidney trouble. Canada's and America's millions use and recommend it daily, and the sale is growing enormously—the sure remedy they are all using is De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills.

Why are all these millions of people using De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills?

Because they have proved by experience that these wonderful little pills are really life-savers.

If they are so good, if these multitudes of people in every corner of the world are using them with such great success, do you not think it would be wise for you to give them a trial?

Don't waste a single hour. Go at once and get a box of De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills, which are made expressly for kidney and bladder troubles. They will cure every one of the above symptoms no matter how long or how badly you have suffered.

To cure Kidney Trouble of any kind, you must positively get rid of the cause—the poisonous Uric Acid. Remember, to do this, a real remedy must pass through the kidneys and the bladder and not through the bowels as most kidney pills do. When you see the urine change to a muddy bluish colour—a feature which distinguishes De Witt's Pills from all others—you know beyond all doubt that they have put their healing touch on the right spot—the kidneys and the bladder. And the cost is so small.

Years of awful Backache—Hopeless—but De Witt's cured me.

Do not put off, because weak kidneys very often means Bright's Disease in the end, and then it will be too late. Be wise in time.

But when you buy the pills be sure you get De Witt's, in large white boxes printed in blue and gold—with a blue wax seal on the top of the bottle. Refuse any of similar name without this special seal. Mr. Wright got De WITT'S.

De WITT'S KIDNEY AND BLAD DER PILLS, while so searching and penetrating in their effects, contain no poisons or harmful ingredients. They are guaranteed to be positively harmless to the most delicate man, woman or child. They are made and packed entirely by machinery, and are untouched by human hands.

PIECE GOODS.

The weather conditions have interfered with business in the Cloth Market during the past week and clearances have been very poor. Outside buyers have been scarce and sales have been unimportant. The little business that is passing is amongst the dealers themselves, and here and there some lots have changed hands, the buyers purchasing in anticipation of higher values and the sellers parting with their goods to reduce their holdings. The favourable reports of the monsoon have made the merchants cheerful and hopes are entertained of better prospects in the near future. A brisk demand is expected during the next month as Hindoo holidays will interfere with the inquiry this month. At present buyers have been content to purchase small lots to meet urgent wants. The hopeful feature seems to be the fact that supplies in some of the leading outlets, excepting Karachi, are gradually being reduced which means that sooner or later stocks will have to be replenished. The Manchester Market is firm and steady, but with little doing. Inquiry for forward business has been rather plentiful, but scarcely anything at all has been done in the way of fresh business. A few more attempts have been made of transactions in White Staples, but buyers are scarcely prepared to pay advancing prices. A fair amount of inquiry is noticeable in Fancy Coloured Woven Goods, but the scarcity of dyes is still hindering fresh business in this style. The heavy arrivals coupled with poor deliveries must have increased the stocks of Piece-goods in the warhouses, and the Chamber's List shewing the stocks held at the end of July is awaited with interest.

GREYS.

There is better inquiry for 39 in. Red End Grey shirtings and rupee rates shew an improvement of two annas per piece since the previous week. Some scarcity is felt of the same style in 45in., which is now being replaced by other cloths in 44in. by 38½ yards. It is reported that some dealers who had previously bought "Fari" cloth No. 2000 from the bazaar are holding out for better rates in anticipation of a rise in the market and are not anxious to sell their goods at less than Rs. 6-14-0 per piece. Firms holding stocks of low quality Red End Grey shirtings are selling them at fair rates. There is not much demand for other Grey shirtings of Lancashire make. Fair enquiry is noticeable for 44in., by 38 yards Gold End Grey shirtings of Japanese make and several offers have been sent by wire for forward shipment, but so far have not resulted in business owing to the high prices required. A better feeling prevails in Grey Jacconets and as stocks are light prices are advancing. Some lots of Nos. 636 and 18 have changed hands among dealers in the bazaar. There is no change in the position of Grey Mulls. 26in. Lancashire Grey Drills are difficult of sale and as stocks are heavy dealers are anxious sellers at concessions in the rates nominally ruling. Merchants are turning their attention to Drills of Japanese make in preference to those of Lancashire and some offers are under negotiation. Grey Dhooties are in poor demand and supplies are plentiful. As makers of these are in want of work very early delivery can be had, but buyers do not care for fresh business.

WHITES.

White Goods have remained steady and owing to the absence of business there is no fluctuation in the rupee rates. A lot of 27in. by 18 yards 16x13/16x15 White Nainsooks has changed hands at Rs. 2-7-0 per piece. Low quality Tape bordered Nainsooks are inquired for, but these are in short supply. There is not much demand for 58in. by 20 yards Red End White Mulls. White shirtings are easier owing to the weakness displayed by anxious sellers. It is feared that the present high prices in some styles of White shirtings will not be maintained when goods arrive here against the heavy purchases made some time back. White Jacconets are selling in small quantities. White Dhooties are scarce and the inquiry continues to be on a fair scale.

The quotations for some of the leading chops of Greys and White are as under:—

LOCAL PIECE-GOODS.

There is a brisk demand for locally made Grey shirtings, and large sales have been effected in the bazaar, which have had the effect of putting prices still further up. Fair sales have also been made by some of the Mills for distant delivery. The outtake of Greys for African ports is satisfactory. Fancy Coloured Woven Checks are in better request for Delhi, Cawnpore and Amritsar, and large sales have been made at high rates.

YARNS.

English Yarns, both grey and coloured, are in better request and prices are advancing. Goods would have moved off better had it not been for the continuous downfall of rain both here and in upcountry. Dealers are now getting confident of good prospects for the future, owing to plentiful and timely rains, as healthy crops are more or less assured. This leads the dealers to offer business for forward shipments and to buy their requirements, but most of the business falls through owing to wide differences existing between Home values and the limits offered. This rise in quotations is particularly due to the recent bullish report of the condition of the American Cotton Crop.

Local Mill Yarns are also in good demand and an advance of 1/8 to ¼ annas per lb. has been established.

Lancashire Water Twist Grey Yarns are quoted as under:—

30s. 'Queen' Ticket	Re 1-0-6 per lb.

EDUCATION IN BURMA.

SIR HARCOURT BUTLER'S SCHEME OF REFORM.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

RANGOON, Aug. 4.

A conference, not open to the press, called to consider the desirability of opening out new machinery dealing with the administration of education in the province of Burma, was held at Government house on Monday, Sir Harcourt Butler presiding. The president at the outset explained the proposal to bring the Education department into closer touch with the Commissioner and the District administrative officials, to associate educational administration with the leading representatives of various localities, and to utilise the Divisional Inspector of Schools as secretary and executive member of a strong committee which should be formed. Their first object was to restore the co-operation which should exist between the officers of the Education department and the local public, both official and non-official in various parts of the Province. As soon as normal financial conditions returned great expansion of education would be inevitable and on that account it was important to have a machinery ready at hand to cope with the expansion.

The Lord Bishop of Rangooon and other speakers joined the discussion which followed. The Lieutenant-Governor having detailed the scheme of membership a resolution was unanimously carried to the effect that the Inspector was to be executive officer of the Divisional Committee and was to do all necessary acts under the general control of the Committee, except in regard to matters concerning normal schools, training classes, etc., in all of which he would be directly responsible to the Director of Public Instruction. The Divisional Committee would be entitled to make recommendations to the Director of Public Instruction in matters affecting the vernacular education.

THARP DIVORCE CASE.

GENERAL STRACEY'S DENIAL.

In the Divorce Court in mail week Sir Samuel Evans and a special jury continued the hearing of the suit brought by Mr. Arthur Keene Tharp, of Southampton, against his wife, Mrs. Madeleine Jane Tharp, with Major-General H. H. D. Stracey as the co-respondent. The charges, which extended over twenty years, were denied.

Mr. Gordon Hewart, K.C., and Mr. Bayford were counsel for the petitioner. Mr. Hume Williams, K.C., and Mr. W. O. Willis represented respondent and co-respondent.

Mrs. Tharp was examined by Mr. Hume Williams. Counsel read the copy of a letter witness said she sent to her husband. It was in answer to one from petitioner to her, saying:

"You have said you cannot live with me, and wanted a separation. You have denounced me in no measured terms, which you have never retracted, so I feel that anything more I can do cannot make you think worse of me. . . . Now I want to know what you propose to do."

Witness replied:—

"Your letter is as untrue as it is unjust I have never said I would not live with you and wanted a separation. You have left me without the ordinary necessaries of life, and I have actually had to write to your butler to ask you to send me money for the servants' wages, washing, &c. I have not forgotten your words to me in the Park the last time I spoke to you, and asked you to try and be friendly again. They are still ringing in my ears: Go to hell! I will see you starving first before I give you a shilling!"

A little later witness admitted her husband wrote complaining that he had received no answer to his letter, and saying:

"I asked you what you proposed to do, and to discuss matters with me, and if you have lost all affection for me. Still no reply. I stayed three days in London waiting for some overture from you, as after your letter I could not intrude on you. If it is you are ill, then I am deeply sorry; but it is impossible to let things drift indefinitely any longer. Either you must be my wife and recognise some sense of duty, and give and take as such or you must go your own way entirely independent of me. Which is it to be? You must either accept me or reject me as your husband."

General Stracey, in the witness-box, said he was now in his seventy-seventh year. He formerly commanded the Scots Guards. Witness was a close friend of Mr. and Mrs. Tharp, "and I am now," he added.

Mr. Hume Williams: Did you think Mr. and Mrs. Tharp lived happily together?—On the whole, I did. Witness told how he and Mrs. Tharp visited each other, and at times she came and stayed at the Hotel Metropole, Brighton, where he was living. Mr. Tharp came sometimes. Respondent, like other friends, would visit him in his rooms while he was painting, but there was never any impropriety between them.

Cross-examined: Witness had no recollection of respondent frequently being in his room before dinner smoking a cigarette.

Mr. Hewart: Could you deny it?—No, I could not.

Witness did not think Mrs. Tharp had ever been alone with him in his bedroom.

Miss Emma Parminter, maid to respondent since 1908, said she had never seen any impropriety or sign of affection between Mrs. Tharp and the General. Another servant followed, and the evidence was concluded.

Counsel addressed the jury.

The jury found no misconduct between respondent and co-respondent, and his lordship dismissed the petition, with costs.

SEISMIC UNDULATIONS.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

LUCKNOW, Aug. 3.

Mr. Hugh Clements of Wimbledon, writes to the "Indian Daily Telegraph":—"There will be perceptible seismic undulations in Switzerland on the 2nd August, north of Scotland on the 3rd. Constantinople on the 9th, north of Italy on the 11th, Idaho in U.S.A. on the 13th, Athens on the 15th, Ionian Isles on the 27th, and Canary Isles on the 30th.

the perfectly innocent story, added the plaintiff.

His Lordship: What was the story?

Plaintiff: I told them what was the fact, that a very well-known gentleman in the City, a stock-broker, had discovered that there were entries in the books of an official receiver that these investments had been made. I told my friends on the Select Committee which was then sitting. I must have made some sort of general remark about that—to the effect that when entries of this importance are made someone or other finds them out. Plaintiff denied saying anything about the key, and described that evidence as "part of the distortion."

Then it is a deliberate invention? asked counsel for the defence.—It is a lie; said Lieutenant Wright.

The jury returned a verdict for plaintiff, with £5 damages against each defendant. Judgment accordingly, with costs.

Counsel for the defendants asked for a stay of execution with a view to an appeal.

His lordship said the only question for the jury was whether they were satisfied that the burden of proof on plaintiff had been discharged.

The application was granted on the usual terms as to payment of costs.

"A GERMAN SPY."

SLANDER SUIT AGAI[NST] AN M. P.

DAMAGES FOR PLAINTI[FF]

In the King's Bench Division in mail [week] Mr. Justice Darling and a special jury continued the hearing of the slander sui[t] which Sub-Lieutenant Peter Lind Wright, R.N.A.S., claimed damages [from] Sir Maurice Levy, Bart, M.P., for [the] Loughborough Division, and two of his [daugh]ters, the Misses Violet and Alix Levy.

The plaintiff alleged that at a din[ner] party given at the M.P.'s country ho[me] Humberstone Hall, Leicestershire, the defendants made statements that he was a German spy. The defence was a complete denial that anything of the kind was said.

Lady Sophia FitzGeorge, who, with her niece, Miss Daphne Fitzgeorge (nee Mrs Earle) were present at the dinner, was recalled. She was a witness for the defence and her niece gave evidence for the plaintiff.

Questioned by Mr. Pollock, K.C., for the plaintiff, Lady FitzGeorge said she was annoyed at the action taken by Lieutenant Wright against the Levys.

Miss Doris Pamela Levy, a younger daughter of Sir Maurice, who was present at the dinner, gave evidence that nothing was said at all about the plaintiff being a German spy or anything of the kind. In the drawing-room after the dinner the ladies played koon-kan, and she never heard the name mentioned.

Similar evidence was given by Miss Alix Levy, who declared she did not hear the plaintiff's name mentioned. She had met him once previously when he came to dinner, and afterwards went with him and her mother and sister to a dance.

Asked if she danced with him, Miss Levy said no. She sat out with him because he could not dance.

Did your mother know that when she asked him to dinner? asked the judge, amid laughter.

When they "sat out" instead of dancing added Miss Levy, plaintiff "told her a lot of fables about himself." (Laughter.)

Mr. Justice Darling was curious, and Miss Levy told how he related his "travels in many parts," and how he said he had made a kite which would open any safe in London. (Laughter.)

His Lordship: How did he come to say that?—Miss Levy: Oh, he talked a lot of nonsense.

Did you believe him?—No. I suppose he was trying to amuse me, and I took it as nonsense and rather eccentric.

When he talked of his travels in the will did he mention Germany?—No. (Laughter.) Miss Levy added that he talked so much about Harrow that she looked up the Harrow School register, and did not find his name. This was because she looked for "Peter Wright," whereas his name was there as "Emanuel Wright."

His Lordship: In modern public school curriculums, is safe-opening one of the subjects taught?

Mr. Pollock: It seems a most important thing—(laughter)—and apparently dancing should be included. (Renewed laughter.)

Miss Nora Sybil Levy was also called, and said plaintiff's name was not mentioned at the dinner.

The judge then recalled Miss Violet Levy and asked her if Miss FitzGeorge was an intimate friend of hers. She said she came to know her in 1911, and from that time until this action started they saw a lot of each other, and were close friends.

"Did she strike you as a truthful young lady?" asked the judge.—"It never struck me she should be otherwise," was the reply.

MARCONI PAPERS.

Mr. Clavell Salter, addressing the jury for the defence, said the question for them was a simple one. When Miss FitzGeorge said in her evidence that at the dinner party Sir Maurice Levy said plaintiff was "a German spy and would be arrested and shot before the war was over," and when the girls said he was "a German spy," was Miss FitzGeorge speaking the truth? Counsel added that he had called all the other people who were at the dinner, and they said no such statements were made.

Before summing up Mr. Justice Darling recalled Miss Alix Levy, and asked her a few questions. You told us just now, said the judge, about some "fables." The plaintiff had told you about a wonderful key and other things. Did he say anything about any papers or things he had been able to obtain with the key?—Yes, he told me he had obtained some Marconi papers.

Where from?—I do not know.

Miss Levy said she did not tell anyone of this remark until after the case started. Then she told her family.

The Judge: You remember Miss FitzGeorge said yesterday "Alix said Mr. Wright must be a very extraordinary man. He told us he had stolen some papers." Can you account for her saying that, if you did not say it at Humberstone Hall?—No, I never told her.

His lordship then recalled Sir Maurice Levy, and asked him if any members of his family had ever discussed the "fable" of Liberal Party funds being invested in Marconi shares. Sir Maurice said he had never mentioned Marconi to his girls, and had never heard them mention the matter at all.

The judge also called the plaintiff into the witness-box again, and invited an explanation of the matter of the papers.

Lieutenant Wright said he met the Levy's in 1913, when the "Marconi scandal" was the leading question in politics. His lordship might remember that it was discovered quite by chance that Liberal Party funds had been invested in American Marconi shares. He told the Levys (he could not remember which of them or when) the way in which he thought that fact came to be known. This story about stealing papers might be an immensely distorted version of

BOMBAY VOLUNTEER ARTILLERY LECTURE.

At the Bombay Volunteer Artillery Headquarters on Thursday last at 6-45 p.m. Captain A. D. Curtis, R.G.A., delivered a lecture on the "History of the Royal Regiment of Artillery." The lecturer dealt with the subject in a most interesting manner and traced the progress of the Artillery from before the reign of Henry V to the present times. Many of his references to the work of the artillery in former centuries and in the Victorian era afforded a striking contrast to the manner in which the Royal Regiment has been and is employed in the present war.

It is stated that Dewan Bahadur Daya Kishen Kaul C.I.E., formerly of Kashmir and recently of Alwar, will be appointed Wazier of the Patiala State.

SOME POST-WAR PROBLEMS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "CHRONICLE."

Sir,—You are doing an inestimable service to India by directing the public attention to problems after the war. Indeed, none of us desire peace unless the objects for which we took up arms are fully achieved, and yet it is to look further afield in order that we may not be fuddled when we return to the piping days of peace. Powerful pleas have already appeared in your columns on behalf of our indigenous industries; accordingly I will confine myself to the claims of scientific agriculture, partly because it is the mainstay of 90 per cent of our rural population, and partly because the educated section of the public generally dismisses questions of agricultural importance with the euphemistic "bally rot," so intensely wedded are they to the seductive amenities of the learned professions.

The first problem, therefore, that we must attack is the organisation of agricultural education, research and experiment. Agricultural education can be promoted by means of liberal grants given for the teaching of agriculture and agricultural scholarships. Many labour-saving appliances are devised by the Department of Agriculture, such as the iron soil-scraper, turmeric polishing barrel etc., which should be largely used to obviate wastage of human or animal labour. The agricultural wealth of India will be considerably advanced if the revenue officials study the official bulletins, and instruct the cultivators to sow the clean seed and not to allow blank spaces to remain because of the use of damaged seed; or in the case of sugarcane, of want of forethought in planting cane-sets, the eye-buds of which must always be placed at the sides. The area under cotton should be considerably extended as it is, like jute, a very remunerative crop, and is capable, under expert supervision, to yield ever-increasing returns. Irrigation facilities should likewise be made increasingly available, and railway authorities be induced to keep down the cost of transit of agricultural produce. Above all, measures be taken in hand to increase the purchasing power of the cultivators, and to promote co-operative purchase, co-operative production, and co-operative credit banks.

I shall conclude my remarks with a quotation from Mr. Ernest Williams's illuminating discussion of the relation between agriculture and manufactures:

"Agriculture is not only the greatest wealth-producer amongst all the departments of industry, but the manufacturing industries themselves depend on it. Agriculture and manufactures, living side by side, support each other even physically as well as economically, as the most elementary chemistry will explain to you; and when they are wedded in the same community, wealth and economic well-being are produced and conserved to an extent which is not possible when they are divorced."—Yours, etc.

EMPLOYMENT OF PUBLIC PROSECUTOR FOR PRIVATE CASES.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE CHRONICLE"

Sir,—I shall feel obliged if you kindly give the following a corner in your valuable paper.

At the last sittings of the Bombay Legislative Council, the Hon. Mr. Bhurgri asked the following question, "Is it a fact that the "Sindvesi" defamation case in Hyderabad (Sind) is stated by the complainant to be a private prosecution launched by him self, in his individual capacity, and at his own expense? (b) Is it a fact that the services of the Public Prosecutor in Sind have been lent to the complainant? (c) If so, will Government be pleased to state why the services of the Public Prosecutor in Sind have been lent in support of a private complaint and what will be the expense of such services?" Government's reply to this was that enquiries will be made. Your readers will be interested to know that the complainant, one of the su assistant surgeons, Civil Hospital, Hyderbad, on solemn affirmation in the Cou has said that he filed this complaint in h personal capacity and at his own expens and his superior officer, Dr. Holland, Ci Surgeon, in his deposition in the Cou said that the complainant (his subordina did not consult him before coming to Co And yet in this private compoundable ca the services of the Public Prosecutor Sind have been lent! In the four hearin it has cost Government very nearly 1,900 on account of remuneration to Public Prosecutor alone. During that t besides the complainant four pr ecution and four defence w nesses have been examined. the rate the case is going on, it wo cost Government something like Rs. 7, as fees of the Public Prosecutor there are about 50 more defence w nesses. In this war time, if economy is be practised, enquiries must be m forthwith. If there is no justification lending the services of the Public Pr cutor for Sind, he may be asked to continue, the sooner the better, as oth wise there will be waste of public mo every pie of which must be saved in time.—Yours, etc.,

EXCELSIOR THEATRE.

FOURTEEN 'STUNTS" BY TWO JOLLY RASCALS.

As merry and cunning a pair of rogues as ever lived by their wits either in fact or in fiction are Messrs. J. Rufus Wallingford and Jackie Daw, the heroes of the big new Pathe serial which commences tonight at the Excelsior.

A comedy serial is a rather new idea, and, one thinks, a happy idea. The mirth of these two jolly rascals by weekly instalments should be quite as attractive a proposition as the more sober thrills provided so successfully by "Elaine" And in any case, the ingenuity of the "Stunts" makes the adventures of Wallingford and partner quite as deeply interesting,—and even exciting,—as the most fearsome exploits of any double-dyed villain

As befits a tale designed to tak several weeks in the telling, the genera outline of the latest Pathe serial is exceedingly simple. Wallingford and Daw, pair of Yankee sharpers, set out to win back for two pretty girls the vanished fortune which has been stolen from the by fourteen different business tricks. The money has been purloined methods "within the law" and it is keeping always strictly within the that these jovial Knights-Errant of rican Finance recover it. Their rite method is to purchase property fr their victim, work up a colossal fictitiprosperity for it on the best American ness lines, and then sell it back again a greatly increased figure before t bubble bursts. It is the confidence k on a grand scale with fourteen va ons.

NEW ALEXANDRA CINEMA.

The "Graft" this week gets on to the th, 8th and 9th episodes, the first of which is called "America Saved From War," and is a graphic story of the attempt of the munition manufacturers to embroil the United States in warfare for the huge profits that would accrue to the conspirators. It was suggested by Mrs. Wilson Woodrow, one of the foremost living writers whose name is a household word wherever good literature is read. The eighth episode is called "Old King Coal," and treats of a vital phase of everyday life that touches all of us. The plans of the nefarious Coal Trust to keep up prices of coal is frustrated by Tom Larnigan in an exciting and dramatic manner. The ninth episode called "The Insurance Swindlers" while it ends in another success for the Larnigans, leaves the horizon almost darker than before. Success is dearly bought by injury to Tom and grief to Dorothy. The plot becomes far more complicated by the apparent separation of the lovers by a fate which is too strong for them. Some unusual camera effects are seen in the pictures which depict Tom's astral body, trying to get the message to the other characters. In the eighth episode the most exciting moment comes when Weisner, the head of the Coal Trust, quickly uncouples a car full of coal to the edge of the grade and rushes headlong down the incline and tears through the shanty where Tom was locked up. In the ninth episode when Tom is locked up in the vault of the insurance trust office which is equipped with a time lock, and experts are summoned to open same, it is a very tense moment.

AMERICA-INDIA CINEMA.

The bulk of the programmes shown at this theatre is composed of drama, there being two this week. "The Cypher Key" is in three parts, and is the story of a young American who is entrusted with important state documents to be delivered to a South American Republic. A gang of adventurers set after him in order to get possession of the papers, but in the end after many thrilling adventures, he succeeds in conveying the papers to their destination. The second drama, "Indian Blood," is a pathetic and appealing subject.

waging for the liberties of Europe, that the God Almighty may shower hi choicest blessings on the King-Emperor and the Royal family, that the souls of Lord Kitchener and other patriotic and brave generals and soldiers who had sacrificed their lives in the present war may rest in peace, and their widows and children may be given strength and fortitude to bear the great losses they have sustained; and that the loyal and brave soldiers of the Allied Powers, including the Parsi-Zoroastrians, who are prisoners in the hands of the enemies, may be protected by his Divine Grace!

Three hearty cheers were then given for his Majesty the King-Emperor.

WAR ANNIVERSARY.

INTERCESSION SERVICES.

AT THE CATHEDRAL.

Yesterday being the second anniversary of the war, intercession services were held in all places of worship in Bombay and prayers were offered for the success of the Allied Arms. At the Cathedral services were held throughout the day. The last service at 6-30 p.m. was attended among others by Sir George Barnes. The service which was conducted by the Rev. Lloyd Arnould and the Rev. C. D. T. Mason was the one issued by the Metropolitan for use in the Anglican churches.

The order of the service was: Confession, our cause, Intercession, Thanksgiving and Our Future. The portion which set forth the great cause for which the Allies are fighting, was very inspiring: Let us remember before God the great cause for which he has called our country to fight. It is God's own cause. We must dare to acknowledge the high motives which certainly weigh with us, and concentrate our mind on them till they have a preponderating weight. For instance, we may be convinced that it is necessary to fight this war for the sake of preserving our freedom as a country and as individuals. But that does not alter the fact that we are fighting for the freedom of other countries as well as our own: in our preservation lies their only chance against the designs of the power which would dominate all Europe: they stand or fall with us. The fight for our freedom is acceptable to God just so far as it is at the same time a fight for every nation's freedom. We believe that it is God's plan that each nation should have a free life of its own, in which to develop the gifts which he has given it. This is one great reason why we are fighting, and we appeal to God to help us as the God of all the nations of the earth. Other aspects of our cause show even more clearly that it is the cause of God. Our Lord once said that "judgment, mercy and faith" were the weightier matters of the law. We are fighting for all these. We are fighting that judgment should be done upon the authors of great and public wickedness, and that good faith should be the rule in the dealings of one nation with another, which alone can make a brotherhood of nations possible. Earnestly and humbly one prayed for our rulers and leaders, and our soldiers and sailors, who had gone forth to fight the enemy, and solemnly thanked the Almighty for the courage, loyalty and self-control of our sailors and soldiers, for the courage and unwearied labours of doctors and nurses and of all who tend the sick, for the diligence and self-denial of all who are striving to serve their country, for the life and work of Horatio Herbert, Earl Kitchener, for the love and example of those who have laid down their lives for us and for their shown towards [illegible] George by his Indian subjects, and loyalty help that they have given to the common cause.

The collection which amounted to nearly Rs. 1,000, will be devoted to the Presidency War Fund.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

Prayers were also offered at the St. Andrew's Church. A large gathering of ladies and gentlemen was present and the Rev. Gordon preached a sermon bearing on the text in verse 29 of the 19th chapter in the Second Book of Kings, "And this shall be a sign unto thee, ye shall eat this year such things as grow of themselves and in the second year that which springeth of the same; and in the third year sow ye and reap and plant vineyards and eat the fruits thereof."

The preacher likened the present war unto the struggle between Assyria and Judah and showed how Germany behaved quite as Assyria did in the method of warfare, in using blasphemous language and in other ways. The righteous Judah got the better of it though the weaker. So success would surely attend the British arms.

After prayers collections were made for the special comfort of soldiers in Mesopotamia.

PARSI PRAYERS.

In response to an invitation issued by the Trustees of the Parsi Punchayet Funds, a large number of Parsi ladies and gentlemen assembled at the Wadia Fire Temple, Bombay, yesterday, to offer prayers for the complete success of England and her Allies. The Hall of the Ameshbehram was crowded to its utmost capacity and late-comers had to stand outside.

Shamsululma Dastur D. P. Sanjana officiated at the prayers, in which all present joined. Prayers were offered, invoking the blessings of the Almighty on England and her Allies against Germany, so that they might be able to drive away the German armies from the territories occupied by them, so that Belgium and France might be able to recover their lost provinces and might again be able to breathe freely. Prayers were also offered to the Almighty to destroy the overweening pride of the Germans, and to destroy their powerful military machine, so that they might not be able to perpetrate again the cruelties they had been guilty of during the course of the war. The prayers concluded as follows: O God Almighty! We are glad at the successes which have up to now crowned the efforts of the armies of the good King-Emperor, and we humbly and sincerely pray that England and her Allies may gain still greater successes and come off triumphant in the end in the just war they are

THE BOMBAY CHRONICLE.
Saturday, August 5, 1916.

AN ENGAGING CURRENCY REPORT.

It is a healthy sign of our m when so important a department o State as Currency keeps pace with p lic opinion on our trade and finan which are so indissolubly inter-rela with the statics and dynamics of pa currency. No doubt for years past t Imperial Government has been issui regularly year after year a comprehe sive report of the circulation of co and currency notes, in all its bro details which are a great help to understanding of problems of t country's foreign and inland trade, well as of the economic conditions the people to a certain limited exten But the Government of India in recen years, say, since the publication of th report of the Royal Commission on Indian Currency, have wisely deeme it expedient in the public interests tha each Presidency or Province should issue its annual report which shall comprehensively deal with all th important facts relevant to its own currency operations. Of course, of all Currency centres those of Bombay and Bengal are the most extensive by reason of their respective volume of internal and external trade and the great staple industries carried on. In one respect the annual report of this Presidency is even more essential, having regard to the fact of Bombay City being the largest importer of gold and silver which, afterwards, again becomes distributed in the other provinces.

The report for 1915-16 is of not such absorbing interest as the one originally and for the first time issued during the commissionership of Mr. Brigstoke. The war has partially contracted Bombay's foreign trade along with that of all other parts of India. The import of gold and silver, again, have been almost next to nothing. And thus the report has partially lost some of its absorbing features. In spite of this drawback, Mr. Trotter's report makes excellent and informing reading. In the introductory chapter we notice a somewhat refreshing manner of presentation of the broad facts which currency students will greatly appreciate. There is an excellent attempt at a lively and attractive style in a literature which is otherwise dull and only suitable to dry-as-dust statisticians. Let us notice only one instance of this style which meets us at the very outset. The second paragraph of the introduction sets the ball rolling agreeably. "The war that disturbed the evenness of the financial year 1914-15 in the fifth month of its existence still continues to cast its gloomy shadow over the face of civilisation." This is pretty enough coming from the pen of the sun-dried bureaucrat who is immersed from day to day in the actual exactitudes of currency arithmetic, especially increases and decreases, or addition and subtraction, and percentages which signify the first principles of striking correct ratios. But the next sentence in the same paragraph is somewhat more elegant. "In common with the rest of the civilised world, India feels the disturbance of its financial relations and its trade conditions; but thanks to the strength of the British naval arm, the disturbance reaches India only in ripples, comparatively faint and feeble." The music of the alliterations tickles our ears, while our imagination is brightened by the complete metaphor. There are many more flashes of this kind of writing in the introduction, which is exceptional in official literature.

After a reference to the previous year's report of Mr. Dewar, which graphically related the effects on Indian finances by what Mr. Trotter phrases as "the bursting of the thunderclap in Europe," we are reminded of the special feature which characterised the latter part of the year under review, namely, the stringency which overtook the money market owing partly to a remittance of the surplus funds from India to England just about the commencement of the busy export season and partly to that inveterate custom of hoarding. Here we pause to quote a sententious observation of Mr. Trotter. "The troubled history of this country before the establishment of British rule has transmitted to its people the heritage of the habit of hoarding and a custom born of insecurity, has become, with a great many of them, a second nature." True. But may we not inquire of the alliterative Mr. Trotter, who in this sentence becomes rather a psychological historian than a currency commissioner, whether insecurity in a state, leading to hoarding of money, is an exceptional verity of humanity, confined to India only? We dare say as a student of the history of England, let alone other countries of the world, he could recall the same condition of timidity, and, therefore, of hoarding money, when times were out of joint, say, from the days of the Duke of Normandy, to those of the Plantagenets, the Tudors and the Steuarts. But we need not detain the reader by referring to what the great seer of Chelsea has called "human verities." These are identical and eternal through all times and among all nations. The psychologist will tell us that caution against apparent insecurity is a virtue implanted in the nature of humanity. Civilisation wears it out, but never radically. Indeed, the present war has shown how far caution has led to hoarding of money among vast masses of the European population; hoarding, which our ingenious Chancellors of Exchequer and Ministers of Finance endeavour to bring forth by divers attractive methods after the manner of the Indian juggler. Of course, the conservatism of Indians has encouraged hoarding, and there is nothing surprising in it; and if, during 1915-16, the habit, which has been slowly waning, was again hardened by reason of the effects of the war, it was only natural. That, observes Mr. Trotter, has affected both gold and silver, though gold, being more valuable, has been hoarded a great deal more than the poor, cheap, and depreciated silver, the bête noir of our neo-goldist who would in have it deported bag and baggage from this country which is the very "sink" of that metal from times immemorial. In his fifth paragraph the Currency Commissioner gives figures to inform us why he so bewails the accretion of gold! The receipts of gold coin in the district treasuries and the Presidency Bank and its branches amounted only £130,355 against £1,864,516 in 1914-15, and £3,513,791 in 1913-14. Thus it is that the golden calf of the neo-goldists has fallen from its high estate. What a fall! From crores millions to almost next to nothing! The Currency Commissioner ascribes this attenuation of gold to the rapid withdrawal of sovereigns from circulation. He also ascribes it to the manufacture in larger and larger quantity of gold ornaments, specially in Madras, where the Streedhan policy of the mass profusely luxuriates. But how is this gap in the gold met? Of course, by expansion of the paper currency. The expansion was ordered by the Government. But in order to stimulate expansion, easy encashment was absolutely essential. The Government embraced this golden opportunity to put into execution without hindrance the recommendation of the Currency Commission, namely, the advantage or expediency of increasing it "whenever and wherever possible," with greater facilities for encashment. Naturally those facilities came to be at once greatly appreciated. The war hastened this problem which was being leisurely considered by the Government, as it has hastened many other financial and economic problems which waited solution for long, long years. So here is one of the obverses of the shield of horrid war. It is no unmixed curse. Governments are either taught some lessons which no amount of sermonising in the Press or memorialising by the public could teach, or are driven by the resistless might of events to put into execution schemes or measures which had been long long delayed or hung up. Such is the driving force of war in finance and economics, and such must also eventually be the influence for good in politics. So far as to the Currency Commissioner's first parable. His second, on the movements of the foreign and inland trade, must await notice for another suitable occasion. On the whole, however, Mr. Trotter's annual review of the Currency operations in the Bombay Presidency for 1915-16 is one which every banker and merchant should carefully study and digest.

Notes of the Day.

The Position of Mr. Asquith.

The "New York World," in a recent issue, utters a judgment on Great Britain's part in the great war, which has at least the interest of apparent impartiality. The journal, while not at all minimising the number of British failures, holds that Britain's proved supremacy at sea would still make her "almost a dictator at any peace conference which would take place at this time," and concludes:—

Great Britain's points of vantage gained in this war are the results of the statesmanship of Prime Minister Asquith and Foreign Secretary Sir Edward Grey. Mr. Asquith has steered the ship of State with boldness and wisdom, and in that respect can take rank among the greatest statesmen the Empire has produced.

This is a view to which special interest is lent by the interpretation that is put by some on the recent remark made by Mr. Asquith in the Commons that it is a warning of the imminence of his retirement. At any rate, it is a view which may surprise those whose penetration has discovered nothing but a "sulky" man in Lord Grey and who have, ever since the war began, conspired to depreciate and dispose of Mr. Asquith.

Motor Accidents.

There was a great deal of loose talk in the Corporation on Thursday on the subject of motor accidents,—as there always is when this subject arises, few people, either on the one side or the other, having the capacity to preserve some sort of mental balance. It is not long since we pointed out that, statistically, Bombay compares favourably with London in the matter of motor accidents, fatal and otherwise, and it is to be regretted that people, whose nerves are shaken by reading the reports of accidents and inquests, do not pause to study statistics and think a little more carefully before rushing into wild suggestions and demands for vindictive punishments in the Courts. Generally speaking, it appears to us that the magistrates are not all loth to inflict heavy punishments on motorists, and one of them makes no secret of the fact. But people who suppose that on that account accidents will diminish have a very limited insight into the whole question and the psychology of the average driver.

The Crux of the Question.

The crux of the question is this,—and, of course, it was left out of Dr. Jehangir Cursetjee's resolution,—in how many cases of accidents, fatal or otherwise, can it be shown that the motorist was to blame? That would really give something definite to go upon by which we could judge whether the abuse that is hurled at the motorist, because he is not content to sacrifice the advantages of a wonderfully developed machine and put himself on a level with the anachronistic horse-drawn vehicle, is in any way deserved. We have no recent figures to go upon. But here is a significant fact. In 1914, the year of the last police report, there were 311 motor accidents, 220 prosecutions and 162 convictions. Thus in practically 50 per cent of the cases of accidents, it may be presumed, the motorist was not to blame. Here is another fact contained in the same report, which we have noted before in these columns, but now repeat. Out of the 23 fatal accidents, 16 were due to the fault of the pedestrians, 4 to careless driving, 2 to reckless driving and 1 to the driver being drunk. In Paris the careless pedestrian is equally liable as the careless motorist, to be prosecuted for his responsibility for an accident.

The Hon. Mr. Srinivas Sastriar.

The news of the election of the Hon. Mr. V. Srinivas Sastriar as one of the two representatives of the non-official members of the Madras Legislative Council to the Imperial Council will be received with gratification throughout the country. The mantle of the late Mr. Gokhale as First Member of the Servants of India Society fell on his able shoulders and it is only fitting that he should be offered the opportunity to work in the field which Mr. Gokhale had so completely and successfully made his own. That he fully deserves this honour cannot be gainsaid by any one who has followed his invaluable work done in the Madras Council. As a fine, attractive and withal convincing speaker there are few, even among the chosen representative leaders which the various provinces have sent to the Imperial Council, who can approach him. To the aid of this great gift, he brings also a stock of well-digested information and an exhaustive knowledge of all public questions which many other non-official members, who have not the same leisure from necessary personal preoccupations, can comand.

An Enterprising Council Member.

A proof of the new spirit of responsibility which is animating members of Legislative Councils in various parts of the country is contained in the announcement in the "New India", that one of the members of the Madras Council, namely, the Hon Mr. Bhat, is establishing at the Headquarters of the District which he represents an office for the recordal of the wants and grievances of the people. This is as ought to be. For it is the essential duty of a representative of the people that he should keep himself always informed and prepared with the needs and grievances of his constituents. It is also stated that the Hon. Mr. Moopil Nair will maintain a similar office at Calicut. The experiment deserves to be widely followed.

Roumania and the "New Way to India."

Roumania, by declining the Austro-German invitation to the Danube Conference, has spoilt, writes a correspondent in an English contemporary, a Pan-German dream of "the new way to India." "The new way" is to be mainly a waterway with a railway link. The railway is to be the Bagdad Railway, the water section is to begin at Antwerp and will consist of the Rhine, a Rhine-Danube ship canal, the Black Sea, the Tigris and Shatt-el-Arab, and the Persian Gulf. The business of the Conference is to be the linking-up of the North Sea and the Black Sea by a system of canals and waterways navigable by vessels of large tonnage. That would link up the Rhine, Elbe, Oder, Vistula, and Danube into a giant network. Some weeks ago an enthusiastic article appeared on the subject in the semi-official Berlin "Lokalanzeiger." The "new way to India" was compared in importance with Vasco di Gama's discovery of the route round the Cape of Good Hope and with the opening of the Suez Canal route, forty-seven years ago. Theoretically (exclaimed the writer) the route from the North Sea to the Persian Gulf was already free. All that was needed was for the concentration of events signified under the names of Antwerp, Belgrade, Gallipoli, Kut-el-Amara to work itself out. Gibraltar, Malta, and Suez would be strongholds without a purpose and out of date. "The thousandfold fruit of German industry will speed down the Danube to the distant East without the eye of a sirgle spying enemy being able to count the ships." Also, "a mighty navy of the Danube Powers"—Roumania, it will be seen, was thus "semi-officially" included—would hold command of the Black Sea. Some day perhaps a Black Sea-Euphrates canal might be made.

Free Traders and After the War.

In view of much that is being written about the war of tariffs after the war, it is instructive to note that a meeting of Free Trade Members of both Houses was held at the House of Commons in mail week to consider the situation created by the Paris Conference and its report. Lord Beauchamp was the chief member of the House of Lords group present, and Sir John Simon the chief member of the House of Commons group. Altogether about forty members of both Houses attended. A strong Parliamentary Committee, with Lord Beauchamp as chairman, was formed as a standing executive to watch the situation. In the meantime, another interesting Free Trade movement, has been started outside Parliament. The Free Trade Union, which is a non-party organisation, writes the London correspondent of the "Manchester Guardian," has sent out invitations to a large number of representative men in commerce and economics,—big business men and eminent economists,—to join in forming a representative committee. The idea is not simply to restate the elements of Free Trade economics, but to investigate and work out a positive commercial policy which, while recognising immutable economic laws, will also recognise the changed political conditions created by the war. It is hoped that this committee will set to work to prepare a reasoned report, fully documented and worked out in detail. The object is to offer not a mere negation but a positive Imperial counter-policy to the crude Protectionism which looks like running away with the nation. To put it shortly, the scheme is to organise on the Free Trade side something like the "Tariff Commission" set up by the Tariff League in the days of Mr. Chamberlain's ill-fated Protection campaign.

THE WAR.

SUMMARY OF TELEGRAMS.

STILL ADVANCING.

FRENCH CAPTURE FLEURY.

ABORTIVE ZEPPELIN RAID.

ITALIAN MAIL BOAT TORPEDOED.

On the Thiaumont-Fleury front the French captured all the enemy trenches and the village of Fleury, the latter fell as the result of a brilliant joint attack from the north-west and south-east simultaneously.

The French line on the right of the Meuse now passes west of Thiaumont extending 500 metres southward at the fort of hill 320.

The French repulsed several enemy attacks on Monacu Farm, and every attack, south of Estrees, broke down under fire. The new French positions between Monacu Wood and Hem Wood is being organised. Progress has been made south of Fleury.

The British have gained more ground at Bazentin. A strong enemy attack on Delville Wood was repulsed with heavy loss. British heavy Artillery effectively bombarded a strong point between Pozieres and Thiepval, the garrison fleeing across the open.

Desperate fighting is proceeding on the Stokhod.

Italy has denounced the Italo-German commercial treaty. This step marks further advance towards a complete rupture.

An official announcement reports that the damage from the latest Zeppelin raid was astonishingly small. No fewer than six airships participated in the attack.

Another piratical outrage has been perpetrated on the Italian Mail boat Letimbro, the submarine shelling the boats which were lowered, smashing five. It is believed that the occupants were drowned.

Mr. Balfour, reviewing two years of naval warfare, said that since the battle of Jutland the German Fleet had sunk to impotence.

The House of Lords has passed the third reading of the Government of India Amendment Bill and the second reading of the Commissions Bill.

ALLIES' FURTHER GAINS.

FLEURY CAPTURED BY THE FRENCH.

BRITISH GAIN MORE GROUND.

ATTACK ON DELVILLE REPULSED.

ARTILLERY ACTIVE ON THE SOMME.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM)

LONDON, Aug. 4.

The British communiqué says ground was gained north of Bazentin-le-Petit and strong attacks against Deville Wood repulsed. It was a bombing attack that gained the ground at Bazentin.

Four strong detachments attacked Delville Wood at night and were allowed to approach to close range before the British fired, repulsing them with heavy loss.

Our heavy artillery bombarded a strong point between Pozieres and Thiepval, and the garrison, fleeing across the open, was shelled by our field guns.

There was considerable reciprocal artillery activity at other points on the Somme front.

Two enemy aeroplanes were brought down, one apparently of a new pattern. Three British machines were brought down by gun-fire.

Our guns were active. The enemy retaliated briskly from Malzhorn farm to Longueval, also against Mametz, Fricourt and Becourt Wood and Pozieres. His fire slackened at dawn.

LUTEST ZEPPELIN RAID.

DAMAGE ASTONISHINGLY SMALL.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, Aug 3.

It is officially announced that the damage in this morning's raid was astonishingly small. Nine horses were killed and three injured. The military object of the raid is not apparent.

It appears that no fewer than six airships attacked the counties of Norfolk, Suffolk and Essex in an hour and a half. Except at one point they did not penetrate very far inland, mostly dropping bombs near, and sometimes in the sea.

It is claimed that one raider making for the coast of Kent was hit once possibly twice. Hitherto eighty bombs have been accounted for.

THREE ZEPPELINS VISIT EASTERN COUNTIES.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM)

LONDON, Aug. 3.

According to unofficial reports it is believed that three Zeppelins visited the Eastern counties and remained some hours. They dropped explosive and incendiary bombs. Anti-aircraft guns were used.

DESPERATE FIGHTING ON STOKHOD.

TURKISH WORKS STORMED IN CAUCASUS.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

PETROGRAD, Aug. 4.

WHY CASEMENT WAS NOT REPRIEVED

(REUTER'S SPECIAL WAR SERVICE.)

LONDON, Aug. 4.

The Press Bureau says that the Government carefully and repeatedly considered the circumstances before deciding not to reprieve Casement.

Evidence received since the trial, shows that the traitor agreed with the German Government to employ the Irish Brigade against Egypt.

FIGHTING ON THE MEUSE.

FRENCH CAPTURE FLEURY.

BRILLIANT JOINT ATTACK.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

PARIS, Aug. 4.

The communiqué says there was no infantry action on the Somme.

The French on the right of the Meuse continued their attacks on the Thiaumont-Fleury front and captured all the trenches between these points, and the village of Fleury, taking 650 prisoners, bringing the total unwounded prisoners taken on the right of the Meuse up to 1750 since August 1st.

Fleury fell as the result of a brilliant joint attack from the north-west and south-east simultaneously. A French attack in the Lechenois region recaptured most of the ground lost on Tuesday.

French battle-planes on the Somme were very active and brought down four German machines. Two others were badly hit and dived vertically into the German lines.

MONACU AND HEM WOODS.

POSITIONS ORGANIZED.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

PARIS, Aug. 3.

The communiqué says we repulsed several enemy attacks on Monacu farm. An enemy counter-attack, south of Estrees, broke down under our fire. We organised our new positions between Monacu Wood and Hem Wood. It is confirmed that German units in the Monacu region have had to be relieved owing to their serious losses since July 30th.

Several violent enemy counter-attacks against the trenches we won yesterday on the right of the Meuse were broken with heavy loss by our curtain of fire and rifle fire.

Following up our gains we progressed considerably south of Fleury, reaching the immediate surroundings of the village and advancing beyond the station. We have taken eleven hundred prisoners on the right of the Meuse since the 1st instant.

There was a violent artillery duel at Vaux Chapitre and Chenois, but no infantry fighting. Three German aeroplanes were brought down.

NEW FRENCH LINE EAST OF THE MEUSE

(REUTER'S SPECIAL WAR SERVICE.)

PARIS, Aug. 4.

The French line on the right of the Meuse now passes west of Thiaumont extending 500 metres southward at the fort of Hill 320. The capture of Fleury enables the French seriously to consolidate the defensive position.

A WALK-OVER FOR THE FRENCH.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

ALLAHABAD, Aug. 4.

The "Pioneer's" correspondent cables: M. Thomas, the French Minister of Munitions, states that the French did not need to assault Hem Curlu or the Monacu Farm but simply walked through them. The army asked him to thank the workers in the factories for enabling them to advance so easily. Out of a whole Brigade only five men were seriously wounded.

According to "La Liberte" since Sunday the Germans have made sixteen attacks between Hem Wood and the Somme, employing a whole army corps. A prisoner states that one battalion lost a third of its effective before reaching the French trenches. Hem station changed hands four times on Monday morning. The prisoners include recruits of the 1917 class. It is also stated at Paris that the enemy has 122 divisions at the Western Front and that the French and the British have adopted effective tactics for dislodging the enemy from the subterranean fastness.

STRATEGICAL IMPORTANCE OF MONACU FARM.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

LAHORE, Aug. 4.

A "Civil and Military Gazette" cable says:—

The possession of Monacu Farm affords a passage across the Somme ending a long detour. Hem Wood commands the ravine containing the Combles railway and enables supplies have not been forthcoming. from Maurepas to be threatened from a third side.

LILLE DEPORTATIONS.

GERMANS' EXCEPTIONAL BARBARITY.

HEARTBREAKING SCENES.

(REUTER'S SPECIAL WAR SERVICE.)

LONDON, Aug. 3.

The publication of the French Yellow Book with full details of the ruthless deportations of 25,000 inhabitants of Lille, Roubaix and Turcoing calls the attention of the world to the exceptional barbarity of carrying these French people into practical slavery for the purpose of making them do the enemy's work behind the German lines.

M. Briand, in a moving despatch, described the heartbreaking scenes which occurred at the violent separation of families.

The deportees have been forced to work for inhuman hours, they are not paid and are not fed and are liable to flogging and other odious punishments.

In view of recorded German atrocities the fate of men who are employed as cooks for the officers and servants to officers is appalling.

This black picture contrasts with the splendid spirit of the victims who shouted "Vive la France" and sang the Marseillaise when they were leaving their homes.

MURDER OF CAPTAIN FRYATT

all their resources. Germany at the beginning had superiority in the quality of munitions but this has been rapidly diminishing. Germany has had many victories but the Allies are now stronger than they ever have been and their resources in men and material are now greater than the resources of Germany.

JUTLAND AFTERMATH

GERMAN FLEET IMPOTENT.

FAILURE OF SUBMARINE WARFARE.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

LONDON, Aug. 3.

Mr. Balfour reviewing two years' naval warfare, says the tide was been flowing strongly in our favour since the battle of Jutland, after which the German fleet sank to impotence.

German wrath against Britain, he said, could be accounted for by the failure of submarine warfare, which had driven the enemy to the very stupid murder of Captain Fryatt.

INSPIRING REVIEWS.

ABSOLUTE CONFIDENCE.

(REUTER'S SPECIAL WAR SERVICE.)

LONDON, Aug. 4.

Mr. Balfour's statement is one of the many reviews of the war published on its second anniversary. These are most inspiriting.

They show that though the Allies have captured a million square miles of territory as compared with 170,000 occupied by the enemy, the Allies' advantage must not be measured in miles. They have at length secured the initiative in Europe, a result to which the collapse of the Germans at Verdun and the battle of Jutland materially contributed.

As "The Times" says, the German record during the past eight months is blank negation. But the task of the Allies is still very arduous. The Germans still stand fast on their main fronts in the east and the west from which it may take long to expel them. Yet the inspiring results of the fighting on the Somme and of the Russian pressure in the east show that the task can be accomplished. The troops of the Allies are absolutely confident of victory. It is universally emphasised that the British Navy has already proved that it is the decisive factor in the war while there has been no more striking feature of the struggle than the re-birth of the British nation.

As Mr. Bonar Law said during the debate on the Colonial Estimates in the Commons yesterday evening, one of the outstanding facts of the war was the wonderful part played by the United Kingdom and every part of thhe Empire.

SITUATION AT CLOSE OF SECOND YEAR.

MESSAGE FROM SECRETARY OF STATE.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

SIMLA, Aug. 4.

The Viceroy's war telegram from the Secretary of State, dated the 2nd August, says:—

The situation at the close of the second year of the war may be summarised thus:—Germany had hoped to crush France in the first year but France recovered from the initial shock. Germany then hoped to strike Russia to ground last year but despite all German successes the Russian army remained intact. Germany returned to France and struck at Verdun but Verdun is still unconquered. Germany has unbroken armies and some reserves in her depots. She says she has no fear of famine. Financially she has still confidence in her people and neutrals have not yet gone against her but the enthusiasm engendered by the first successes has disappeared. Public opinion in Germany has distinctly changed and now shows signs of fatigue. The hope that she can crush her enemies in detail by well directed blows, has vanished, and the German people are beginning to think about further.

The German financial system is very fragile and if Germany cannot end the war quickly to her advantage she will pass through a terrible period of economic difficulties: After calling up her trained men Germany called up various categories of untrained men beginning with the youngest. The 1916 and 1917 classes have already been summoned and only inferior material is left. Men up to 46 years have also been called up. In depots are 150,000 to 200,000 wounded who have recovered and the 1918 class. But once these resources are exhausted there remain only old men and convalescents. Yet Germany has to maintain war on all the fronts and support her allies in widely extended fields of operations. She has not yet suffered a crisis owing to lack of effectives but a crisis is approaching and though she has still great resources of labour and is employing prisoners of war and inhabitants of invaded countries, she is dependent on her own activities and cannot draw neutral countries as the Allies can. The blockade has not brought actual starvation but it must be pressing hard on the Germans or they would not show such rage at its continuation.

Austria is in even a worse position than Germany. She has called up men of 52 and already enrolled the 1918 class.

Turkey cannot give the help expected of her or improvise a modern army. On the other hand neither Russia, Italy nor Great Britain have yet been able to employ

BELGIUM UNDER THE SURFACE.

NEW YORK BANKER'S INVESTIGATION.

BELGIANS' INDOMITABLE SPIRIT.

Mr. A. J. Hemphill, Chairman of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, one of the most powerful banking institutions in the United States, has just left London after a visit to Belgium and Germany. He was also received by King Albert. Mr. Hemphill, who acts as Hon. Treasurer of the Neutral Commission for Relief, crossed the Atlantic to see for himself the conditions in the German occupied part of Belgium and to investigate the distribution of the relief supplies to which the American people have generously contributed. In order to secure permission to enter Belgium he had to go to Berlin, where he spent the better part of a week. In the course of an interview Mr. Hemphill said:—

"I was greatly impressed while in Berlin with the difference of opinion which exists among prominent Germans as to the advisability of permitting the continuation of the present system of relieving the Belgians in Belgium. The shortage of food supplies in Germany itself, owing to the allied blockade, has given rise to considerable criticism of the German Government's action in agreeing to the Allies' demand, as a condition of continued relief imports that the whole of the home-grown food supplies in Belgium should be devoted to the sole use of the Belgians. An influential German section maintains that at least a portion of these supplies are, under the the Hague Convention, the rightful support of the occupying army, and that so long as there is any possibility of German women and children and German soldiers being in want of food these Belgian native productions should be taken by the German Army for this purpose.

CRITICISM IN BERLIN.

"Another criticism levelled at the German Government is that the policy of permitting relief supplies to be distributed merely prolongs the passive resistance which is still practically universal among the seven million Belgians who are under German rule. However, despite the serious opposition on both these scores, I am confident that the more humane policy authorised by the German Chancellor will continue to prevail.

"When I got to Brussels my first impression was that everything was normal, except the absence of vehicles owing to the scarcity of horses and the prohibition of motors except to a few. The people are well clad, the shops are open and everyone goes about their daily life much the same as they do in London or New York. At the markets I saw people buying and selling—mostly vegetables—and business being freely transacted in the ordinary way. That was on the surface. But one has to remember that Belgium normally lives on imported raw materials and food and pays for her food by export of her manufactures. This vital current is stopped by the war and 60 per cent. of Belgium's work-people are idle. A large part of the commercial class are also idle and reduced to dependence upon charity. When I went to the relief stations where the wholly destitute—amounting to a large proportion of the population—get their soup and other provisions, I saw, in the waiting queues, not only the needy class that one would expect, but well-dressed men, women and children. In Brussels and elsewhere throughout Belgium the human lines that daily wait for the small ration provided by the charity of the world are marked by this same sad feature. Destitution is not only widespread, but there are now dependent upon relief thousands of the upper classes who never dreamt of coming to such a pass.

MISLEADING FIRST IMPRESSIONS.

"It is only after being in Brussels for a little time, and after visiting Charleroi, Malines, Antwerp, Liege and other places that one realises how misleading are first impressions of life in Belgium as it is to-day. The outward appearance of normality is sustained only by the fact that relief to the value of over £1,200,000 is, so to speak, injected into the country every month. The external calm is an amazing tribute to the efficiency of the system whereby the Relief organisation provides and distributes to this whole nation the supplies without which there would be chaos and unthinkable suffering. In this complex work of rationing every day over seven million souls, of whom just one half are totally or partially destitute, the Belgians themselves are co-operating magnificently. Without their unflagging support and public-spirited work the efforts of those throughout the world who, regardless of nationality, sympathise with the Belgian people would fail of their purpose. The Comite National in Brussels composed of the leading Belgians who dared to stay and face the invaders, has enrolled thousands of volunteer helpers who are now experts in this problem of rationing.

RELIEF REACHES THE BELGIANS.

"Both in America and England a good deal of uneasiness somewhat naturally exists as to the relief supplies actually reaching the Belgians. I discussed this point thoroughly with responsible Belgians throughout the country and with the Americans who are supervising the distribution, besides keeping my own eyes open for any indications of confiscation by the Germans. As a result I am convinced that the relief supplies sent into Belgium reach in their entirety, the Belgian people. Except for trivial local incidents, which are invariably remedied, I heard of no instance whatever of the Germans breaking their guarantees to respect the food which the Allied Governments allow to be brought through the blockade. As regards the home-grown produce there are, probably, still some minor leakages—almost inevitable in a country garrisoned by a foreign army—but I can safely say that 95 per cent. of the native food supplies go towards feeding the Belgian people. The inappreciable leakages to which I refer are always made the subject of negotiations between the Relief Organisation and the belligerent Powers.

"You ask me as to what the Belgian people really think. They don't think. They just hope. They live from day to day in the undimmed expectancy of regaining their independence. I might also say they live on hope, because if that wonderful spirit were not there, the scanty ration, which is all the Relief Organisation can supply, would be inadequate to prevent increased disease and mortality.

HIGH GERMAN WAGES REFUSED.

"Under ordinary circumstances the population would be pauperized by free feeding of the unemployed. This is not the case in Belgium. In the first place, a daily diet of soup, bread and sometimes potatoes and a little bacon, and occasionally rice and beans, continued over two years, does not offer many attractions. It is only the indomitable spirit of the people themselves that makes it bearable. They will be glad enough when peace comes to exchange free meals of such a kind for the food they can earn by work. At present, a small percentage get a few days' work weekly in local industries, such as the enamel, glass and coal trades, at a few francs per week. They unceasingly refuse wages of from 5 to 25 francs a week which they could obtain by working for the Germans. Glass and enamel were, by consent of the Allies, at being exported in small quantities, but the payments for such exports are retained in Allied countries until the conclusion of the war. The German assertion, that the whole Belgian nation has organised a passive resistance strike on an unprecedented scale, is undoubtedly correct.

"In one relief canteen which I inspected a man came up and made a complaint. There was no meat, he said excitedly, in his soup. He had long given up the idea of receiving meat as part of his daily meal, but if he was to live, he declared he must get some of the nourishment that meat provides. He was right. There was practically no meat in the soup. But what is one to do? Such meat as there is in the country is six shillings per pound.

THE PLIGHT OF THE CHILDREN.

"There are 600,000 children in Belgium entirely dependent upon the tender-heartedness of the outside world. A large percentage of the remaining two million children, up to the age of 16, are partially dependent upon relief. The problem of bringing them up and even of keeping them alive is becoming more and more grave. The Relief Organisation has just started an extraordinary interesting experiment to meet the emergency of short milk supplies in industrial centres. They have asked the peasants to lend, free of charge, for one year, one cow from each of their herds to a communal herd which will provide milk for the children. In Antwerp, the herd now numbers over 400 cattle. In other centres the peasants are responding excellently to the appeal. At the end of the year the cows will be returned to their owners, who will be compensated for the loss of any of their cattle.

"A MARVEL OF EFFICIENCY."

"My visit to Belgium gave me my first opportunity to see for myself the actual working of the relief system. It is a marvel of efficiency and devotion. As an American I am proud not only of my fellow-countryman, Mr. Herbert Hoover, to whose genius for organisation the whole structure owes its continued existence through a thousand heartbreaking difficulties, but of those Americans who, so self-sacrificingly and self-effacingly, are devoting themselves in the occupied territory to keeping the Belgian nation alive. M. Emile Francqui, head of the Belgian Comite National, has also achieved wonders and his army of Belgian workers is the most striking instance in history of volunteer collective action. The work both of the Americans and Belgians, could not be carried on without the humane and effective backing of the American and Spanish Ambassadors in London, the American Ambassador in Berlin, and the devoted American and Spanish Ministers, who remain at their posts in Brussels.

"All Americans admire the magnificent generosity with which the British Empire, despite the many other calls upon its benevolence and resources, has contributed, through the National Committee for Relief in Belgium, to the support of the relief work. After seeing that work for myself, I venture to say that it is the duty of every humane individual to help these helpless civilians in Belgium—especially the children— who, for nearly two years have endured sorrows and privations that would try the soul of any nation in the world, and yet still remain heroically true to those traditions of liberty and freedom which they have inherited through centuries."

ALLEGATIONS AGAINST A PLEADER.

FURTHER PROSECUTION EVIDENCE.

At the Mazagon Police Court before the Fourth Presidency Magistrate, the hearing was resumed of the case in which Superintendent Morris charged Mr. Yacoob Ibrahim Sayani, a pleader, with using a forged document as genuine, with criminal breach of trust and with cheating in respect of certain title-deeds belonging to Mr. Kazi Mahomed Ismail Kazi Rahimtulla.

Mr. De Quadros, pleader, defended the accused.

Examined by Mr. Morris, Mr. Jehangir Rustumji Patel solicitor, said that he knew the accused. Shown a paper witness said that he had never drafted its original or any other document of which it might be a copy. It purported to be a copy of a power of attorney given by the complainant to the accused. Witness knew the handwriting of the accused. In the paper shown to witness the words "Yacoob Ibrahim Sayani" in the body of the typewritten document and the words at the end, "True copy Y. I. Sayani" were in the accused's handwriting in ink. Witness had never granted any power of attorney passed by the complainant in favour of the accused. If the original, of which this paper purports to be a true copy, there was a statement to the effect that that document had been attested by the witness, it would be false and his (witness's) signature would be a forgery.

Shown another paper, witness said that it bore the signature of the accused in two places in his own handwriting. Witness also saw two Gujarati signatures. In one of them pencil marks were perceptible underneath almost every letter, whereas in the other signature witness could see pencil marks underneath about half the number of letters.

The further hearing of the case was adjourned.

ALLEGED THEFT OF CARPETS FROM DOCK.

STOLEN PROPERTY FOUND AT ACCUSED'S BUNGALOW.

At the Esplanade Police Court, yesterday before the Third Presidency Magistrate, Inspector Shaw charged J. G. Smith, an ex-Inspector in the Royal Indian Marine, with the theft of eleven carpets, the property of the late Major Ross.

The case for the prosecution was that when the accused was employed at No. 11 Alexandra Docks, in April last, a consignment containing the carpets arrived there from London, King, King and Co., addressed to "Mrs. Ross, c/o Col. Ross, London," and to be shipped in the troopship Royal George. The carpets were left with Mr. W. D. Turner, a planter, by the late Major Ross when the latter went to the front. On the death of Major Ross in Mesopotamia, Mr. Turner sent the carpets to Dehra Dun from where they were sent by the Adjustment Committee to Messrs. King, King and Co. with instructions to forward them to London. On the 4th July last a letter was received from the London office of Messrs. King, King and Co. saying that the case had not been received there. Kinaird Henderson, who was assistant to the accused in the Marine stores, Alexandra Dock, alleged that the case was broken open by the accused, who put the carpets in a cart, covered them up with some bedding and sent them to his rooms in Frere Road. Inspector Jefferies of the C. I. D. deposed to his and Inspector Doran, having, in consequence of information received, gone to the accused's house at Andheri, where the accused had lately shifted. The carpets were found on the floor of the accused's house.

The accused alleged the carpets were brought to him by Henderson. He thought they were Henderson's. Henderson asked him to send them out of the docks in a cart which the accused was passing out. Henderson followed the cart and removed the carpets into the rooms. As Henderson had a small room he asked the accused to keep some in his room.

The further hearing was adjourned.

TROUBLE OVER A COMPLAINT.

A DENTAL SURGEON. WITHOUT DIPLOMAS.

At the Esplanade Police Court, yesterday, the Chief Presidency Magistrate disposed of the matter in which at the instance of Mr. Harry de Graaf, who called himself a dental surgeon, a notice was issued against Mr. A. P. G. de Silva, calling upon him to show cause why process should not be issued against him for insult. Mr. Pereira appeared for Mr. De Graaf, while Mr. M. S. Noronha was for Mr. De Silva.

The complainant alleged that the respondent who lived in rooms adjoining to his in the Mohamadi Mahal at Dhobi Talao, bore him ill-will in connection with a case. He further alleged that on the night of the 23rd July he had some friends at his house and in order to annoy him the respondent cleared his mouth with loud gurgling sound and abused him.

The accused alleged that he had assisted the complainant in his business as dentist and on account of some dispute arising with regard to payment of commission the complainant was on unfriendly terms with him. Respondent further alleged that the complainant got drunk and abused him.

Questioned by the Court, the complainant said he did not possess any certificate or diploma as a dentist. He was formerly employed in the Port Trust. He had studied dentistry for three years. He admitted having published an advertisement to the effect that he was an American dentist and that he extracted teeth without giving pain, etc.

The Magistrate on the evidence discharged the notice, observing that if anybody was in the wrong it was the complainant. He further observed that the complainant was on his own admission passing himself off as a dental surgeon though he had no diploma or certificate. He thought this was a matter which should be enquired into by the Commissioner of Police, and accordingly ordered the advertisement to be sent to him for information.

The following further donations are announced towards the Kitchener Memorial Fund:—H. H. the Maharaja of Faridkot Rs. 1,500, Their Highnesses of Suket, Dewas Junior, Orcha and Barwani each Rs. 1,000, the Nawab of Radhanpur, the Rajas of Dharampur and Jhabua, the Nawab of Cambay, the Maharajas of Durgerpur Benares, Kapurthala and Gidhaur each Rs. 500, the Rajas of Baria and Chotaur Udepur and the Thakor Sahib of Limbdi Rs. 300 each, the Raja of Lunawada Rs. 51

DADA V. ENGINEER.

FURTHER DEFENCE EVIDENCE.

Before the Third Presidency Magistrate at the Esplanade Police Court Haji Ahmed Haji Hassam Dada charged Nanabhoy Cowasji Engineer with criminal breach of trust in respect of two hundis of the value of Rs. 1,200 each.

Mr. J. D. Davar, instructed by Mr. Nariman of Messrs. Ardeshir, Hormasji and Dinsha and Mr. Maganlal appeared for the complainant; Mr. D. B. Binning and Mr. D. A. Ghaswalla instructed by Mr Rustomji Broacha and Mr. P. K. Kotwal represented the accused.

Perojsha Edalji re-examined by Mr. Ghaswalla said that one bottle and one pint of sparkling cider was sold on the 25th April. Two separate memos were made for the two different quantities, and champagne memos were quite separate.

Alan Frank Burney, Head Bailiff in the Sheriff's office, examined by Mr. Binning said on the 22nd July there was a warrant of attachment of movable property against the accused.

Mr. Davar objected to the witness as being irrelevant.

Mr. Binning said he wanted to prove that Mr. Surajmal had been mixed up with the whole affair and was at the bottom of the whole thing. He would show that Surajmal's sepoy was accompanying the witness and divested himself of his clothes at the street corner. And his managing clerk also assisted in the execution.

Continuing the witness said Hargovan, managing clerk of Mr. Surajmal, and Purshottamdas, managing clerk of Messrs. Ardeshir, Hormasji and Dinshaw came to his office. Hargovan told him that he wanted an attachment against the accused to be executed at once. The witness got it from the Deputy Sheriff and saw it had been taken out by Messrs. Ardeshir, Hormusji and Dinshaw also. The witness asked Hargovan what he had to do with it, when Hargovan said he had come there to show Purshottamdas the accused's place, as the latter did not know it. They talked in Gujarati and said they would come at about 5-30 p.m. that day (22nd July, Saturday). They came about 5 p.m. and informed the witness that they would come on Monday morning. At about 11 a.m., on Monday Purshottamdas came to his office and asked the witness to execute the warrant. Then the witness asked him where Hargovan was to point out the property of Engineer. He said Hargovan was not going to come but Mr. Surajmal's sepoy was there outside the office. The witness and his sepoy sat in one gharry and Purshottamdas, his sepoy and Mr. Surajmal's sepoy sat in another. They stopped both the gharries at the end of Proctor Road about 100 yards from the accused's house and Purshottamdas asked him to wait in the gharry till he was called for. Here the two peons took off their long coats. He did not know whether they had their office belts on. Messrs. Ardeshir Hormusji and Dinshaw's sepoy came back about seven minutes after and asked the witness to accompany him. He took the witness to second floor of the house and when he went inside he saw Purshottamdas seated on the soft. He never saw Mr. Surajmal's sepoy again. The accused, who was not at home, was sent for. He came at once with Messrs attorney and the attachment money was paid. It was for about Rs. 4,000 and odd.

To the Magistrate:—The last the witness saw of Mr. Surajmal's peon was when he saw him in the gharry seated with Purshottamdas.

Cross-examined the witness said Hargovan told him on the first day that he was there to show the accused's house. After Mr. Surajmal's sepoy had gone in the direction of Engineer's house he never saw the sepoy again. He could not swear that Mr. Surajmal's sepoy took off his clothes.

LOANS FROM DADA.

Submanji Husanalli said he had formerly a boot shop opposite the Crawford Market,—about 15 years ago. He was now a government contractor and dealt in machinery. He was the manager of the property of Jafferji Ebrahimji for which he got Rs. 50 per month. He knew the complainant. He had dealings with the complainant; he had borrowed Rs. 30,000 twice and Rs. 18,000 once. On two occasions he had borrowed sums of money for his son-in-law. To Jafferji Rs. 60,000 were paid and Rs. 18,000 for his son-in-law. He had borrowed a sum Rs. 2,000 on his own account from the complainant for scrap iron through the accused. After about twenty days out of the sale proceeds of the iron he gave Rs. 2,200 to the accused to be handed over to the complainant. Out of the Rs. 300, profit he made, he gave Rs. 150 to the accused. He kept Rs. 150 for himself. The next time he bought scrap iron worth Rs. 3,000 and the accused arranged the loan. He sold not buy the scrap iron. The money remained with him for a few days and the complainant came to him one day and asked him what he had done with the money. The witness told him the money was lying with him. He came again and told the witness that the accused had told him to take the money from him. Then he went with Dada to the accused's office and handed the money to the accused who handed it to the complainant.

Cross-examined by Mr. Davar witness said the Rs. 3,000 were borrowed about five years ago; he did not remember the exact year. He had no transactions with Dada since then personally. He had signed hundis in favour of Engineer, but had no other dealings. There may have been three or four hundis. He never kept books since he gave up his shop. He did not pay income-tax for the profit five years, although his income was about Rs. 2,000 per year. His boot business had not failed. He had not received any money from the complainant in respect of these hundis. He did not ask the accused whether he had received any money from the complainant in respect of these hundis.

Mr. Binning objected to the questions as being irrelevant.

Mr. Davar said he wanted to prove the witness in the box was a liar.

Continuing, the witness said no demands were made upon him for the monies of the hundies. He did not obtain a receipt from the accused for the Rs. 3,000 he had returned him which were lying with him. He went to Surajmal's office at about noon; he did not know whether Surajmal was in the office; only the accused and the complainant and witness were in the accused's room. He did not ask for a receipt because he had not given one for the amount.

Wamanrao Thakur recalled and examined by Mr. Binning said he knew the suit of Nanalal Parbhuram against Nagindas Shroff. He was not the real defendant. He had read the judgment in that case. The witness was not the principal witness in that suit. He did not remember whether there were any other witnesses in that suit.

The evidence was finished here and the case will be taken up to-day at 10-30 a.m.

A MOTOR COLLISION.

ACCUSED ACQUITTED.

At the Mazagon Police Court yesterday before the Second Presidency Magistrate a chauffeur employed under Mr. Dadabhoy C. Mistri named Raimond Prasinna was charged by Sergeant Daglish with having driven his car from a side road across a main road without affording room to another car going on the main road.

It was alleged that on the 12th ultimo the accused drove his car from Laburnum Road, a side road to the main road, Owen Dunn Road without giving room to the car of Mr. V. J. Reed then going along the main road. Eventually the cars collided with each other.

The counsel for the defence Mr. B. H. Daruwalla argued that the roads were at right angles to each other and that the tree at the corner of the road shut off the vision of the Owen Dunn Road. The car of the accused was proceeding slow and he was cautious in turning at the corner. The car belonging to Mr. Reed came at a fast rate on the wrong side of the road. No horn was blown either. Hence the collision.

His worship acquitted the accused.

RAMZAN IDD CELEBRATIONS IN JUNAGAD.

MR. OZA AT BAHAUDDIN COLLEGE.

The Moslem students of the Bahauddin College organised a gathering on the night of the 1st instant to celebrate the Ramzan Idd festival. The professors graced the occasion by their presence in spite of heavy showers at the time. The proceedings opened with the solemn recital of a song from the Holy Koran, followed by music and refreshments. The Mahabat Fellow then read the address of welcome in which he alluded to the wide sympathies and never-failing kindness of Principal Scott, whose keen interest in the well-being of his students recently materialised in the Moslem Association, started to promote higher education among poor Moslem students. The lecturer appealed for help for the founding of a "House of Prayer" somewhere near the premises of the hostel, where the Moslem students might offer their daily prayers, and concluded with a fervent prayer for the success of the allied arms. After some of the professors had addressed a few words to the students, Mr. Keshavlal L. Oza was pressed by the students to favour them with some remarks. Mr. Oza then rose amid cheers, and opened his address with a benediction to his young friends. He mentioned that "the first thing that strikes a visitor to the Bahauddin College is the esprit de corps among the students." He appreciated the strong bond of sympathy that subsisted between the Hindu and Moslem students. He thanked the students for their kindness in entertaining their professors, and exhorted them so to conduct themselves as to be shining seed-points of light, thus reflecting credit not only on their College and their country, but on the Empire at large.

ALLEGED MURDER BY STRANGULATION.

DEATH SENTENCE SET ASIDE AND ACCUSED ACQUITTED.

(Beore Justices Beaman and Heaton.)

GANGAYA BIN RUDRAPPA v. THE KING-EMPEROR.

This was an appeal against the decision of Mr. Clements, Sessions Judge of Dharwar, who disagreeing with both the assessors found the accused guilty of murdering one Irappa Jadar at Hire Honihalli and convicted and sentenced him to death under section 302 of the Indian Penal Code.

The prosecution case was that on the night of 29th March 1916 the deceased was found to be of good health. He was a toothless old man aged about 60. At daybreak on 30th March his wife Gangawa began lamenting loudly in the house and it became known that the deceased was found dead. The Police Patil was informed who regarded his death suspicious and so he ordered a panchnama to be held. Marks of injuries were found in the neck of the deceased. Subsequently the body was medically examined and the death was pronounced to be due to strangulation. After due inquiry the accused was arrested and put on a trial.

The defence of the accused was that he was sleeping on the day of the murder on the 'Hellal' i.e., backyard of the house. He had nothing to do with the murder The patil asked for a bribe of Rs. 100 which the accused said he was unable to give. Then the patil told him that the offence of murder would be fastened on him. Thereafter the patil took him to Kalghatgi.

The evidence in the case established was that the accused was on improper terms of intimacy with Gangawa and was living in the same house as she and her husband, the deceased. That Gangawa was not telling the whole truth. She denied her intimacy with the accused.

The Sessions Judge found that the evidence of Gangawa was sufficiently corroborrated by that of Shiwappa. The accused statement strengthened the evidence against him and therefore he found the accused guilty.

Their Lordships set aside the conviction and ordered the accused to be acquitted. Their Lordships observed that the whole case depended upon the evidence of Gangawa, wife of the deceased, If her evidence was not believed then there was an end of the case and so it would be unsafe on the slender testimony of Gangawa alone. Under these circumstances the accused was acquitted and discharged.

Mr. V. V. Bhadkamkar appeared for the accused.

APPLICATION FOR STAY OF PROCEEDINGS

INJUNCTION REFUSED BUT SUIT EXPEDITED

MANEKCHAND K. MUTHA,—Plaintiff v. KESHAV RAGHUPATH BHARAD,—Defendant.

This was the hearing of a motion brought on by the defendant, calling upon the plaintiff to show cause why certain proceedings taken by the plaintiff against the defendant in the Sub-Judge's Court at Ahmednagar should not be stayed and why he the plaintiff should not be restrained by an injunction from proceeding with the said Ahmednagar application until the final disposal of this suit.

Mr. M. R. Jardine, the Advocate-General appeared for the defendant in support of the notice of motion.

Mr. B. J. Desai appeared on behalf of the plaintiff to show cause against the notice.

Briefly the facts which gave rise to the bringing on of this motion are as follows.—

The plaintiff is a Receiver appointed by the Ahmednagar Court of the estate and effects of Rambilas Kaluram, Shrilal Kaluram and Narsingdas Kaluram, who were adjudicated insolvents by the Ahmednagar Court in 1914. The said insolvents traded as Shroffs and Commission Agents at Bombay under the name and style of Jaynarayan Rambilas. The defendant's firm had dealings with this firm and on making up accounts it was found that a sum of Rs. 2,441-10-10 was due by the defendant's firm to the firm of Jaynarayan Rambilas. The plaintiff as Receiver of this firm of Jaynarayan Rambilas filed the present suit against the defendant to recover the sum of Rs. 2,441-10-10 due from him. The defendant's case was that on making up the accounts upto 31st August, 1915, a sum of Rs. 248-14-6 only was due from him and he had repeatedly offered to pay that amount to the plaintiff. In the particulars annexed to the plaint, the plaintiff had not given credit to the defendant for a sum of Rs. 1,700 paid by him on 11th November, 1913 to Rambhau Abaji Buge per hundi drawn by the firm of Jaynarayan Rambilas upon the defendant on 8th November, 1913.

WHY DEFENDANT CONSENTED TO ADJOURNMENT.

In an affidavit in support of this notice of motion the defendant stated that in March 1916, this suit was at the top of the first prospective board and the plaintiff was afraid that in view of the facts disclosed by the defendant in his written statement, the suit would be dismissed. Consequently the plaintiff got the defendant to consent to an adjournment of this suit on condition that the plaintiff should take proceedings in the Ahmednagar Court against Rambhau Abaji Buge, the payee of the hundi above referred to for recovery of the sum of Rs. 1,700 paid by the defendant to him at the instance of Jaynarayan Rambilas. Instead of commencing proceedings in the Ahmednagar Court against Rambhau Abaji Buge alone, the plaintiff instituted proceedings against Rambilas and the defendant himself by way of application under sections 37 and 38 of the Provincial Insolvency Act III of 1907. In those proceedings the plaintiff has prayed for a decree for Rs. 1,700 against Rambhau and the defendant for which amount he the defendant has claimed credit in his written statement. The only question in issue in this suit is therefore the same as in the Ahmednagar application, viz., one relating to an item of Rs. 1,700 and therefore the defendant submitted that the proceedings at Ahmednagar should be stayed until the final disposal of this suit so that the defendant might not have to fight out the same matter both at Ahmednagar and at Bombay.

It was contended on behalf of the plaintiff that the proceedings in the Ahmednagar Court were taken in its Insolvency Jurisdiction to have the said transaction set aside as being fraudulent under section 37 of the Provincial Insolvency Act. The claim in the suit at Bombay had nothing to do with the subject matter of the application at Ahmednagar. The application to the Ahmednagar Court was made to set aside a transaction under section 37 as being fraudulent and void and the words "the Court" in section 37 meant the Court which adjudicated the said person or persons as insolvents. The proceedings therefore at Ahmednagar were proper and should not be stayed by his Lordship.

His Lordship refused to grant an injunction as prayed for by the defendant. The suit was expedited and ordered to be placed on board on the 14th August 1916. Plaintiff was to be at liberty to file a further written statement within a week. Costs costs in the cause.

COMMANDING OFFICER'S TRIBUTE TO OUR MEN.

"AS THOUGH ON PARADE."

The Press Association is enabled to publish the following interview with the well-known commanding officer of a battalion that fought in France in the autumn of 1914 and fought a bloody fight between Arras and the Somme in mail week. The officer landed at Southampton with a hole through one hand and an ugly shrapnel wound in one leg.

"My battalion went in with twenty-three officers," he said. "No, not at 7-30 in the morning. We were two hours later to allow for the taking first of —— and ——. We moved at the appointed time, all the same, with, as I said, twenty-three out of our total complement of officers. All units left a portion in reserve, you know. Well, sixteen of the twenty-three I knew were casualties that same morning, though only two were killed. I don't know yet about the other seven, but you may judge the fire was hot to knock out sixteen officers in twenty-three at the very outset. Yet, mind you, our fellows reached their objective. They got there, and they would, some of them, have got there if Hell itself had had to be crossed. It was rather an inferno, you know.

OUR MEN SUPERIOR.

"Whatever happens, there can be no sort of doubt about the superiority of our men. Man for man the Germans cannot approach them for spirit and gallantry. Their moral was simply superb. Really, one doesn't want to exaggerate or be fulsome, but no lesser word will serve. They could not have been finer; no soldiers could. They were superb. The Boche machine-guns, brought up from their deep concrete bombardment shelters, were sweeping that front with an absolute hail of lead. Nothing could live in it. Our fellows knew all about it—they could see. There was no possibility of blinking it, and I give you my word our only trouble with them was to prevent them charging right into the thick of it before the chosen moment. There never has been a finer spirit shown; there never could be. I don't speak of my battalion only. Ask any officer. Everyone I have spoken to on this boat had exactly the same experience

"Our men are not bullet proof. When they enter a zone of living fire they get hit, but till they are knocked out they baulk at nothing. No prospect can check them; they are as brave as mortal men can be; their moral is perfect, and the level of their spirit could not possibly be bettered.

OFFICER AND THE GERMAN.

"The officers—my officers—were splendid—all of them—all of them. Take quite a young fellow, now, Lieutenant Chawner, a most gallant young officer. In the teeth of that tornado of fire he dashed across No Man's Land at the head of his platoon. He actually landed at the Boche front line without a man—his platoon was a small one. Not one man got through but himself, and he found himself face to face with three Boches, whom he promptly threatened with his revolver; and he made them lay down their rifles, took the three of them prisoners, and ordered them back to our own lines. Just then he was knocked over by a shell fragment with one of the Boches. When he recovered consciousness one of the remaining two Boches, who seems to have known which was the better side to be on, was bandaging him. The other had vanished. So Chawner thanked the Boche who bandaged him and then marched the man back to our lines, a prisoner.

"A REALLY BAD BIT."

"Our men marched through that raging fire exactly as though on parade, and if they had been soldiers all their lives they could not possibly have shown cooler discipline, better moral, or a finer fighting spirit. That was one of the really bad bits, you see, the flank positions having withstood all our assaults, and my battalion suffered terribly in consequence. But they fell fighting like heroes, and if you want to understand a thing like this 'push' you need to try and see it whole. Then you'll find that what we buy is easily worth what we pay for it. There was no waste, and you will also find, I gather, that in some sectors we inflicted tremendous punishment and made great gains at the barest minimum of expense. Our fellows have realised this already. That is why the tone all through is so absolutely confident. The rising tide is with us.

"Myself? Unfortunately, I was knocked helpless into a big shell-hole at a comparatively early stage.

"You can't make such big omelettes as this one without cracking a good many eggs, you know."
